

PSE - Adding a project - Part One

Action - When the user clicks on add a project - a modal window pops up to enter the data.

Comments -
The modal pop-up box for the form needs to be flexible to allow for a variety of devices from desktop, tablet to mobile. If on a smaller than desktop device it may need to be paged over 2 or three page sections.

Comments -
Location/map areas - we could implement
'browser sniffing'
to geo-locate the
user to country/
locality level -
then they can
alter the location easily. Large widget to include map location.

Second step of modal pop up form

Comments -
When all the fields have been filled the user clicks on the 'submit project button' the project form is submitted. The final page element will be a 'thank you' and what happens next (and possibly a sign up to tn.org newsletter?)

Comments -
Further exploration needed on the closing texts of a project submission.

What do we tell them will be happening to their data?

How do we keep the user engaged for the future?
